Founded in 1876, Edgbaston High School for Girls (EHS) is the oldest independent day school for girls in Birmingham. The School site is very pleasantly situated next to the Botanical Gardens in the leafy suburb of Edgbaston, 1½ miles from the city centre. Continuity of education is a key feature of EHS, but girls can join at different stages of their academic career.

GOVERNANCE

The Council, which is the School's governing body, actively supports and encourages the work of the School. In the last decade over six million pounds have been spent on major development and refurbishment programmes.

MODERN AND AMBITIOUS

Pupils enjoy a broad-based programme which substantially fulfils the requirements of the National Curriculum and extends beyond it. ## CLASSICS DEPARTMENT

Curriculum

Our curriculum begins at KS3, where students develop a strong foundation of the Latin language and explore the influence of Roman culture on the ancient world. All students in Years 7 to 9 study Latin through the Suburani course-book, combining linguistic study with cultural appreciation. Within our Year 9 course, we introduce students to ancient Greek religion to give them a wider understanding of the classical world.

We offer students the opportunity to study Latin (Eduqas) and Classical Civilisation (OCR) at GCSE level. Therefore, the ability to teach Latin would be required. There is typically one set per subject at GCSE. Students are able continue Latin and Classical Civilisation (both OCR) to A Level. We often have students who take these courses aspiring to study classical courses at university.

Extra-Curricular

We encourage pupils to pursue Classics beyond the classroom with annual trips for every year group to destinations including the British Museum, the Roman Baths, the Ashmolean Museum and Chedworth Roman Villa. Older students have had the opportunity to attend lectures and go to the Warwick Ancient Drama Festival. There have also been regular excursions further afield to Italy. It is hoped that the successful candidate would be willing to contribute to these extra-curricular activities.
